What is Pitt Hopkins Syndrome?

Pitt Hopkins Syndrome (PTHS) is a rare, neuro-developmental disorder caused by a mutation of the TCF4 gene on the 18th chromosome. It is characterized by significant developmental delays, problems with motor coordination (ataxia) and balance, breathing abnormalities, and seizures. Most individuals with Pitt Hopkins do not develop functional speech. Pitt Hopkins affects all races and both genders equally. Since the gene that causes Pitt Hopkins was only found in 2007, currently there are approximately 1500+ people in the world diagnosed with this syndrome, however we believe there are many more.

Our Mission

The mission of the Pitt Hopkins Research Foundation (PHRF) is to support research dedicated to finding a treatment, and an eventual cure of Pitt Hopkins Syndrome (PTHS) and other similar disorders. The PHRF is also dedicated to supporting the PTHS community with resource recommendations, parental support and the latest medical information.

Your Investment in Research will Make A Difference

Our board and officers are parents and professionals who volunteer their time, so that over 94% of funds raised and donated go to finding a cure. Our goal is to find a treatment as quickly as possible that will help give our children higher functioning, fuller lives.

This research is funded by your generous donations from the community. Please join us, your donations give us so much more than money - they give us hope.
